

FOOD & WINE ON MALLORCA

Olive theme

28th–31st October & 13th–16th January 3 nights/4 days

Day 1: Transport from the airport to our small family-run hotel in a beautiful mountain village. Evening meal at the hotel (in January this is changed for a BBQ in the village square as this coincides with the St Antoni festivities!)

Day 2: After a hearty breakfast we take a walk through the olive groves to a 600 year old olive farm. There we are part of the harvesting team, we pick olives and then use the olive press from the 15th century to make our own olive oil. We eat a workers lunch of P'amb Oli. This is made of Mallorcan bread, cured ham, local cheese, olives and olive oil.

After lunch and a siesta we take the olive oil with us and are taken to Palma to the cookery school of Michelin chef Marc Fosh. His team show us ways of working with olive oil and we eat what we make!

Day 3: Another beautiful walk through olive groves and the citrus valley (approx 1½ hours) to visit a Mallorcan farm where we will eat Sunday lunch with typical Mallorcan specialities, lamb, suckling pig, rabbit or roast goat will be on the menu, After we've had a look around the farm we walk or will be taken back to the hotel. This evening we have a tapas meal.

Day 4: We check out from the hotel and are taken back to Palma by way of the beautiful coastal road on the northwest of the island. We stop off at a vineyard on the way and have a wine tasting and a picknick amidst the vines. You will be able to buy local produce or wines to take home with you.

This part of the programme (Day 4) can take place on Day 1 instead depending on flight times.

Please contact us for price information.

Should you wish to stay an extra night to experience Palma we will organise this along with a visit to the fantastic food hall Mercat Olivar and a visit to a “Vinoteca” where you get a last chance to buy some of the islands best wines to take back with you. In the evening we will eat at one of Marc Fosh’s restaurants in Palma.

Please send us an email or call us for more information or to book.
There is a limited number of places for these packages.
